the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000). The number of people aged 65 and over is projected to increase to 15.5 million by 2020, and the number of people aged 75 and over to 8.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop strategies to meet the needs of older people, and to ensure that they are able to live independently and actively in their own homes for as long as possible. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the development of age-friendly communities, and the establishment of local authority services to support older people. The aim of this paper is to review the current state of research on the needs of older people, and to discuss the implications for practice.

2. Background

The World Health Organization (WHO) defines ageing as 'the process of becoming older' (WHO 1990). It is a natural process, and is not necessarily associated with decline or disability. However, the process of ageing can be influenced by a number of factors, including genetics, environment, and lifestyle. The WHO has identified a number of key areas for research on ageing, including the social determinants of health, the role of the family, and the role of the community.

The WHO has also identified a number of key areas for practice, including the development of age-friendly communities, and the establishment of local authority services to support older people. The aim of this paper is to review the current state of research on the needs of older people, and to discuss the implications for practice.

3. Methods

This paper is a review of the current state of research on the needs of older people. It is based on a search of the literature, and a selection of key studies. The search was conducted using the following keywords: 'older people', 'needs', 'research', 'review', 'ageing', 'disability', 'independence', 'active living', 'social determinants of health', 'family', 'community', 'age-friendly communities', 'local authority services'.

The search was conducted using the following databases: Medline, Psycinfo, Sociofile, and AgeLine. The search was limited to English language articles, and to articles published between 1990 and 2000. The search results were screened for relevance, and the full text of the relevant articles was obtained. The articles were then read and summarised, and the key findings were extracted.

The key findings of the review are summarised in the following table. The table shows the key findings of the review, and the implications for practice. The key findings are: (1) The number of people aged 65 and over is projected to increase to 15.5 million by 2020, and the number of people aged 75 and over to 8.5 million. (2) There is a growing awareness of the need to develop strategies to meet the needs of older people, and to ensure that they are able to live independently and actively in their own homes for as long as possible. (3) This has led to a number of initiatives, including the development of age-friendly communities, and the establishment of local authority services to support older people.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 1999). The prevalence of mental health problems has increased in the general population, and the incidence of mental health problems has increased in the prison population.

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the mental health needs of prisoners. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for mental health services, which includes a commitment to improve the mental health of prisoners. The Department of Health (1999) has also published a strategy for mental health services, which includes a commitment to improve the mental health of prisoners.

Beeping invaders Capture CHSers

Clink! Zap! Flash! Chomp! Chomp! As another quarter drops, dots are devoured by the ravenous Pac Man.

According to a January 18 issue of "Time" magazine, an estimated 20 billion quarters were deposited into electronic arcade tills last year. In all, an estimated $5 billion was spent for the clinking and beeps on arcade games.

Bottom right: Desiring quarters, junior Neida Quinones "hits" the coin changing machine before tackling the arcade games.

Fitting in

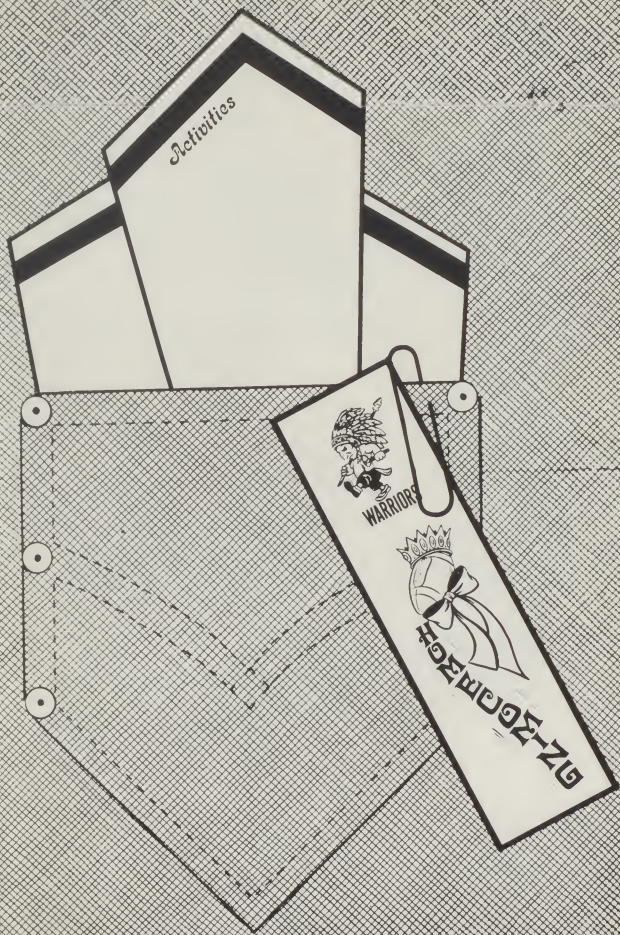

"Fitting in" at plays, concerts and dances was all a part of Calumet fun.

Preparations for the "big event" included staying after school, getting out of class and the hustle and bustle of last minute arrangement. However, the most fun of all took place when the doors opened for admission, the curtains rose, and the band began to play.

This year, CHS students participated in a new event, the election of a "Mr. Football" was selected from four gridiron finalists, who also acted as homecoming Queen escorts during the halftime festivities.

The wide range of activities carried on throughout the school year provided ample opportunity for CHSers to find that special place for "Fitting in."

Warriors win annual classic

Graduates and students gathered at Homecoming to celebrate the Warrior's third win of the season. The CHS squad beat River Forest, 26-0, on Friday, September 25.

Halftime was celebrated by the crowning of Michele Kacher, senior, as the 1981 Homecoming Queen. Curtis Forrester, senior, was selected Mr. Football. Michele received fifteen assorted red and white roses and a trophy. Curtis also received a trophy. Members of the Queen's court were presented with flowers, and those in Mr. Football's court received boutonnieres.

CHS celebrates spirited week

Pep Sessions, a Homecoming Revue and a Powder Puff game brought excitement to the annual Spirit Week Celebration on September 21 to 25.

The Student Council sponsored a variety of dress-up days to celebrate the week. On Monday CHSers reversed their clothing to demonstrate their desire to "Turn the Ingots Inside Out." On Tuesday students sported their favorite tie and socks. Wednesday found students attired in outfits representing their favorite sport. Dressed in black, CHSers "mourned" the death of their Homecoming opponent on Thursday. Wearing the traditional school colors of red and white were encouraged by the Council on Friday.

The Senior-Sophomore Powder Puff squad was victorious against the Freshman-Junior team on September 24. The final score was 6-0.

Color abounds in '81 book

Exchanging memories for the 1981 year, was the topic of the evening of September 10 as patrons of the "Chief-tain" gathered in the fieldhouse foyer to obtain their yearbooks.

"Changin'" was the theme for the book. The annual contained eight pages of full color, and twelve pages of senior portraits, purchased by the Class of '81.

Over 400 books were sold during the sales campaign held during the fall of '80.

Fitting in Athletics proved to be another important area for "Fitting In" at CHS. Whether in team sports, or in individual endeavor, participants strived to attain the highest goals.

In both girls and boys sports, students, parents, and faculty attended athletic contests to "cheer on" CHS members.

Calumet added a new team to the program in 1981. The CHS Seahawks Swim Club participated in some Junior Varsity competition during the swim season. Next year, the organization will compete as a varsity unit.

Calumet's Cross Country squad finished their 1981 season with a record of 8 wins and 2 losses.

The team finished seventh in the Lake Suburban Conference tournament. The team consisted of approximately nine members, and Mr. Randy Harkabus and Mr. Woody Feeler served as coaches for the '81 team.

Shoot, swish and score two

The 1981-82 Calumet Warriors were one of the most surprising teams of the season. As freshmen, the team only won one game, and as varsity players they defeated thirteen teams and placed second in the conference, indicated Coach Carl Traicoff.

Senior Frank Sweeney was named as the "Most Valuable Player," and Charlie Washington, junior, was named CHS' All-Conference player.

The team completed their season with a record of 13 wins and 9 losses.

During sectionals, the team defeated the Griffith Panthers and then were defeated by the Crown Point Bulldogs by a score of 60-59.

Fitting in

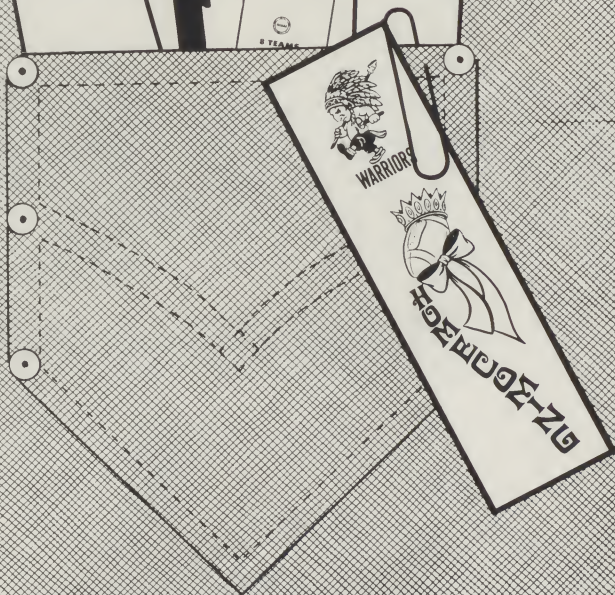

CHS was not all fun and games. Once the bell rang, Calumet students weaved their way through hallways to assigned classrooms to further their education.

The wide selection of courses helped to prepare students for a variety of career choices. Courses in practical arts, such as, business, industrial arts, home economics, vocational training, etc., helped to prepare students for the job market.

For the students planning to continue in academic study, advanced courses in the humanities, mathematics, sciences, and arts were offered in the CHS curriculum.

Yes, "Fitting in" at Calumet required answering that second bell when class was called to order.

Learning all the 'lingo'

A variety of courses comprised the English and Foreign Language Departments at CHS this year.

Electives in the English area included yearbook, newspaper, speech, journalism and senior English. Foreign languages consisted of Spanish, French and German.

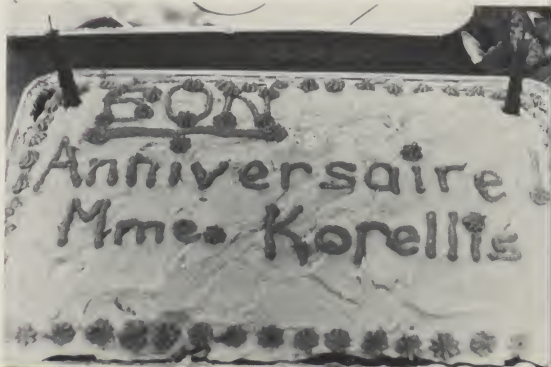

Miss Carmen Lis, Spanish teacher, was added to the staff at the beginning of the school year.

Mrs. Ann Koreellis, French teacher, and five French students traveled to France during the summer of 1982. French students also translated letters for elementary students with pen pals in France during the year.

Other classroom projects this year included creative interpretation of poetry in Miss Johnnie McCray's senior English classes and television commercials in Miss Francie Blaney's Journalism I class.

Stadt wins science award

The CHS Mathematics and Science Department offered a great deal to the student body.

Basic Knowledge of everyday problems to the functions of complex numbers were taught in the department.

If it was science you enjoyed you could learn about the formation of elements that make up the world, explore the universe, and learn about the galaxy.

Living things were the subject in biology. You could find out about the compositions of substances in chemistry.

Department honors went to senior David Stadt who was awarded a bronze medal in the Bausch and Lomb Contest.

Read a good book lately?

Reading for both fun and improvement were two basic functions of school library and reading center at CHS.

Physical conditions in the school library were altered during the Christmas vacation with the installation of carpeting. Mrs. Betty Cheliras was also appointed as a library aide in the fall of the school year. Mr. John Talias served as librarian and audio visual director.

The reading lab consisted of approximately 13 to 15 students per hour. Students were recommended to the lab by classroom instructors. Equipment and supplies in the facility were designed to improve vocabulary comprehension and applied skills. A course in speed reading was also offered as an elective.

CHSers probe the practical

Advanced cookery was added to the Home Economics Department during the year. Mrs. Joyce Weakland, teacher, announced that the class taught more advanced principles of cooking.

New equipment was added to the woodshop and graphic arts areas. The equipment was purchased by the Lake Ridge School system.

A variety of projects were completed in woods classes. Students constructed cabinets, doll houses, etc.

Graphic arts helped the newspaper and yearbook staffs throughout the year with printing and graphic designs.

Below: Senior Tim Thomas prepares a graphic layout at the light table. Tim also shot the negatives for the school paper and helped to prepare the artwork for the 1982 "Chieftain."

The art of learning

"Artsy" endeavors were pursued by many areas within the Fine Arts Department. Classes were offered in the areas of drama, music, and arts and crafts.

Students enrolled in drama classes presented a Homecoming Revue in the fall. Members of the course also performed a spring play, "Lumberjacks and Wedding bells."

Chorus and Band members traveled to local and state contest for competitions.

Art Classes at CHS completed projects in painting, drawing, sculpturing, and arts and crafts.

Accent on social areas

A variety of courses were offered in the social science area during the school year.

Mr. George Ahlgrim's sociology and psychology classes conducted a poll on student-parent relationships. The class also held an ethnic food project. Class members brought in dishes reflecting their ethnic heritage.

Mr. Steven France's ancient history classes traveled to the Field Museum during the year to view exhibits.

Keeping fit at Calumet

A new addition was added to the Physical Education Department this year as the pool was opened. Swimming classes were required by all students participating in physical education for a six week period. During the summer months, lessons and recreational swimming were offered to the public.

Physical Education classes offered many different types of recreational activities to CHS students. Some of the activities included tennis, ping pong, racquetball, badmitten and golf. Physical education is a two year required course.

Driver Education is also offered to the CHS student body for one semester. Health classes were a one year required course.

Taking care of business

Preparing for the world of business, some CHS students chose courses within the Business Department.

Department offerings included classes in typing, general business, shorthand, business machines, accounting, insurance and credit, consumer economics, and intensive laboratory.

Students in the intensive laboratory, who were also members of Office Education Association (OEA), participated in local and state competitions.

Right: During Mr. Joseph Yacko's fourth hour Accounting I class, junior Eric Chandler finishes an assignment.

Fitting in

CHS organizations were very active this year. Groups sold ribbons, candy, T-shirts, and many other items to pay for fieldtrips, banquets, and club projects.

C-Teens held food drives in order to give Thanksgiving and Christmas food baskets to some needy area families. French Club raised funds to support a trip to France during the summer. Student Council sponsored Homecoming and Spirit Week festivities. Many vocational clubs participated in a spring banquet to honor their employees. Quill and Scroll and National Honor Society held spring ceremonies to honor new inductees into their honoraries.

"Fitting in" at CHS often required service to a variety of clubs and organizations throughout the school year.

Groups hold major events

Student government and school honoraries were active during the year sponsoring activities and inducting new members.

CHS' Student Council sponsored a Teacher-Student Exchange Day and Spirit Weeks.

National Honor Society sold candy during the year and held bake sales. The annual candelight induction ceremony was sponsored by the organization on April 26.

Quill and Scroll gained five new members during the year. The honorary held a bake sale in the spring to finance the purchase of journalism pins.

Groups gather new culture

Calumet's Spanish Club received a new sponsor this year, Miss Carmen Lis. The Spanish Club held a bake sale during the year, and six members of the club traveled to Spain during Easter vacation.

German Club members sold posters during the school year. Club members traveled to Purdue Calumet University to participate in the Foreign Language Day.

Staffs 'press' for deadlines

Indigestion? Staffers knew the meaning of the word when deadlines rolled around during the school year.

Newspaper members chose a new format for the "Warrior." The group added another fold, and produced a large photograph for the front pages.

Yearbook staffers chose "Fitting in" as the theme for the '82 "Chieftain." The Senior Class donated the funds to pay for their portraits in color. Staff members kicked off the school year with a signing party for the '81 "Chieftain." Both staffs went to Purdue Calumet in the spring.

Lee, Behnke win state

Indiana Health Occupation Students of America (I-HOSA) were very active during the 1981-82 school year. They conducted a Red Cross Blood Drive, which was held in the library on March 15 from 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Mrs. Dorothy Hepp, sponsor, said that I-HOSA was working to obtain the most blood draws in order to capture a trophy. This year was the fifth year that Calumet's student body supported the Red Cross drive.

Seniors Russell Lee and Sheila Behnke won first place plaques at the Indiana State Health Occupations Recognition Day, held on April 17 at Ben Davis High School in Indianapolis. Sheila placed first in Veterinarian Assistant Competition, Russell placed first in Nursing Assistant Skills.

Career clubs grab honors

OEA's won in two areas in the state contest. The group's poster placed first and senior Denise Roth placed second in Communication Specialists. The National Contest was held in Nashville, Tennessee.

The group sold carnations for Valentine's Day, and also sold candy, weeples and other items to fund trips to state and national contests. They held their annual Spaghetti Supper and a parent-teacher Christmas party during the year. Several members won the regional contest held at the Gary Career Center.

ICT had two members win at the regional contest in body and fender competition. In the body and fender contest seniors Terry Hero placed first and Jerry Joseph captured a second.

Group makes much music

Members of Calumet's Band performed two major concerts during the school year. Organization members also traveled to local and state contests.

The musical group performed during football and basketball seasons at home games.

Organization members sponsored some fund raisers during the year to pay for new uniform costs.

Yell squad places fourth

The CHS Varsity Cheerleaders were active this year. They participated in the annual Homecoming Parade, sold ribbons at Homecoming and sold hats and signs at sectional.

The girls traveled to the United States Cheerleading camp at Valparaiso University and placed fourth in overall competition. The cheerers also traveled to a regional contest held at Woodmar Shopping Center in Hammond, where the group placed third.

Cheering on those teams!

The CHS Cheerleaders were active this year. They attended a cheerleading camp at Valparaiso University. During the school year, the squad sold ribbons and other items.

The Warriorettes participated at football and basketball games, and attended a pom pon camp at Notre Dame University, where the group captured a third place.

Calumet gained a new addition to the cheerleading section this year. The lettergirls appeared at games to boost school spirit.

Group boosts CHS spirit

Rousing school spirit, CHS Pep Club included many activities during the school year.

The group constructed posters, stuffed team stockings, and, in general, made an effort to encourage both girls' and boys' athletic teams.

Lettergirls, a new organization founded by Pep Club, appeared at games in spirit uniforms.

The club went to Marriot's Great America in the spring.

Fitting in

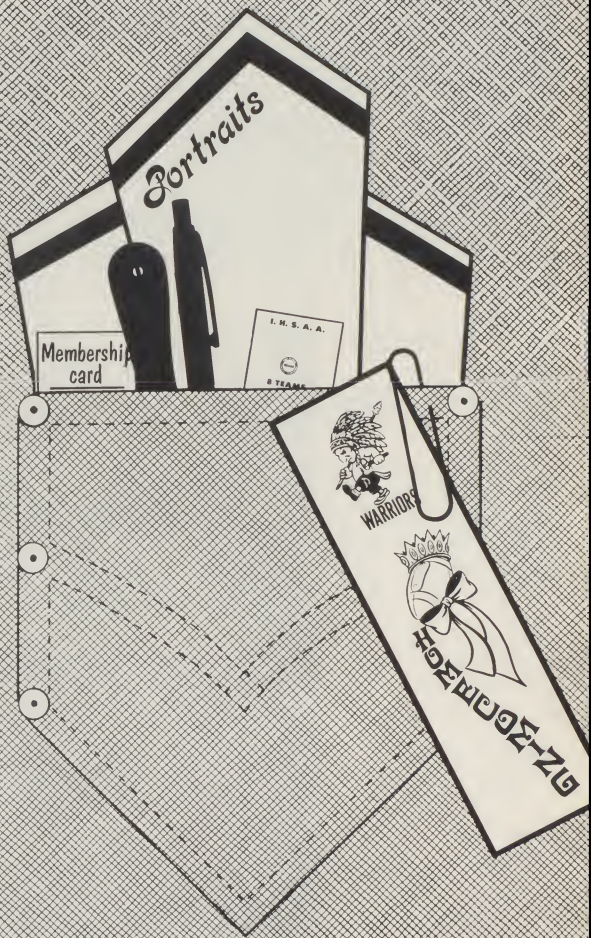

Looking around the hallways and classrooms throughout Calumet, CHSers, could be identified as "Fitting in" with the latest fads and fashions.

Many students were "Calvinized" or sporting labels from Jordache, Gloria Vanderbilt, or some other brand of designer jeans. However, some CHSers were still forsaking the expensive denims for less costly brands.

The latest hairstyles were also prevalent, as many students sported perms, braids, and other feathered styles.

"Fitting in" at CHS required some conformity to styles and fads. Whatever, the fashion, many students adopted the fad to fit their personal styles.

Staff attends Frisco seminar

CHS principal Mr. Robert Joseph and Lake Ridge Superintendent, Mr. Herbert Abramson attended the National Association of Secondary School Principals from March 19 to 23. The conference was held in San Francisco, California. The convention enabled principals from all over the country to discuss events effecting secondary education.

A major event at Calumet during the year was the opening of the new pool facility. A dedication ceremony was held on October 19 to present an opportunity for community members to view the new addition.

Thanks '82 for the memories!

A year of activities began for the Class of 1982 in the fall of '81 with Spirit Week and Homecoming.

Miss Johnnie McCray, Senior Class sponsor, directed a candy sale during the fall. Proceeds were used for the purchase of senior pictures in color in the 1982 yearbook.

On May 14 seniors celebrated the last day of class attendance at CHS. That evening couples arrived in formal attire for the Junior-Senior Prom.

However, a special moment came on May 23 as graduates turned their tassels and clinched their diplomas at graduation ceremonies.

Fitting in

Many CHSers felt the "crunch of the economy" when unemployment rates soared.

In general, businesses suffered and large corporations such as "Goldblatts" and "Mays" were forced out of business. Also, numerous small proprietorships were forced to close their doors.

As fewer and fewer businesses remained open, jobs became scarce. Therefore, some Calumet students were not hired because men and women with families were often favored in the selection.

Finding a job was often one of the main necessities for any high school student. Extra cash always seemed to be a priority to the enjoyment of a social life. After all, automobiles, gasoline, movies, arcade games, etc. required more than Mom and Dad's usual allowance.

Yes, one's financial state often related to one's ability to continue "Fitting in."

Take a Good, Hard Look at Tomorrow,

Today!

Because tomorrow is just around the corner, and your future will depend a lot on the decisions you make today.

Your career goal is probably the single most important decision you'll make, so consider it carefully. Consider your interests and skills, and then consider working for a company that will allow you the opportunity to develop and use them effectively.

At Inland Steel we like to bring out the best in people. We do it through training programs, and by offering growth potential. We need solid employees on the production lines, in the craft apprenticeships, in our laboratories, and in the offices.

We've built a strong reputation as a first-rate steel-maker, and we built it with the help of our employees. But we don't rest on past laurels. Like you, we're looking at tomorrow.

One by one, the diplomas are handed out and the thrill of graduation filters through the CHS fieldhouse. To many, this moment provides a feeling of great accomplishment and the end of thirteen years of education. However, to others it is merely one goal met, soon to be replaced by the desire for continued schooling.

Whatever thought races through the mind of each graduate as he/she hears his/her name called on commencement day, life will never again be quite the same. A long struggle with life's decisions may be just beginning. However, whatever the challenge along the way, a strong determination and a great deal of effort, should provide a life blessed with great accomplishments.

Yes, they are "Movin' on."
